Application

December 29, 2009

To whom it may concern,

Thank you for reviewing the enclosed résumé and supporting information. Please accept my application for a position with your company.

From my résumé you will see that I have not only extensive experience as a web site designer, producer and administrator, but also possess an extensive background in the print production, design, advertising and publishing industries. I have worked in many positions, both line and management, in various legs of the communications industry over the past 30 years.

I have a background of managing creative teams and assuring the quality their productions. I am familiar with the principles of project management and quality control.

I am also an award-winning video producer, having won a Cronkite School of Journalism Best of the West award for my video/multimedia production of “Road To Hana” for the Honolulu Star-Bulletin. I have produced many short and longer format video projects and DVDs for the students and teachers of Kamehameha Schools.

I have been involved in several successful startups, most of which are still operational. On startup and consulting projects, I am valued for breadth of knowledge. I can perform nearly any function on any operations team. My value lies in being able to rapidly recognize and respond to problems, as they arise, contributing to the overall success of the project.

The attached résumé ends with Fergerstrom & Co., in 1981, due to space considerations. Prior to that, I was a typesetter and typesetting trainer, a graphic production artist and designer. I also published a color hot rod magazine when I was 27 years old. My first job in the communications industry was for Sunbums Magazine in 1976.

In addition to my career in communications, I also spent four years in the U.S. Navy during the Vietnam War era as a Submarine Sonar Technician and Surface Sonar Technician. Anyone who serves on a submarine must learn to do every job on the boat, and may be called to duty at any position in an emergency situation. This is where I trace the roots of the “Swiss Army Knife” analogy found on a later page of this application.

Mahalo nui for your consideration.

Aloha,

I utilize many tools for print and Web: Quark XPress, Photoshop, Freehand, FileMaker, Dreamweaver, FTP, mail server and mailing list software, InDesign, AppleWorks, Word, PowerPoint, Excel, iMovie, GarageBand, and Final Cut Pro. I have experience with AfterEffects and the Avid Video Composer. I manage Apple file and Web servers, Apple system software and networking. ∞ I am familiar with Apache, PHP, MySQL, PERL and other Internet applications. ∞ I was the first person in Hawaii producing Quicktime VR 360° photography.

Experience

Office of Hawaiian Affairs

— Oct. 2007-present

Acting Public Information Officer (2009)
Webmaster, Media Production Specialist

I currently manage the OHA Public Information Office and a staff of 7. In addition to running all aspects of www.oha.org, I am a journalist and staff photographer for OHA's Ka Wai Ola newspaper. I manage all display and classified advertising for KWO. I also work in various capacities on OHA's radio, television and PR productions.

University of Hawai'i at Manoa

— Spring 2009 semester

Instructor, Online Journalism

Assisted Profs. Ann Auman and Kevin Kawamoto in teaching the online journalism component to their J402 and J302 classes.

Honolulu Star-Bulletin

— Oct. 24, 2005–Oct. 2007

Webmaster, starbulletin.com

I was invited to return to my former management position at the Honolulu Star-Bulletin.

Kamehameha Schools

— Oct. 22, 2001–Oct. 19, 2005

Education Webmaster

As IT staff, I implemented web servers and services dedicated to education users for this private K-12 school. My responsibilities centered around system administration and account management for faculty and administration, programming, analysis, consulting and operations support. ∞ I mentored middle and high school students via the Kamehameha CyberWarriors club. ∞ I also provided education technology, photography and video support to staff, as requested.

University of Hawaii Outreach College, Pacific New Media

— 1997-present

Instructor, Create Your First Web Page

I teach a four-hour adult education class several times a year on how to make and post your first web page. Class evaluation ratings are almost unanimously excellent.

Honolulu Star-Bulletin

— Mar. 4, 1996–Oct. 19, 2001

Webmaster, starbulletin.com

I joined this daily newspaper and rolled out a daily online newspaper two weeks later. It has been online since. I produced thousands of complete online editions. I also occasionally wrote and edited newspaper articles and headlines, took photographs and shot video to accompany newspaper articles. Managed all aspects of the web site and team.

Milici Valenti Ng Pack Advertising

— Sep. 1995–Mar. 1996

Multimedia production manager; system support

Produced multimedia slide shows, web sites, did occasional print production and consulting and managed the Macintosh network, including installing ethernet networking, router, file server and staff email.

Starr Seigle McCombs Advertising

— Jan. 1992–Sep. 1995

Manager of production art; system manager

I converted an existing production crew from traditional graphic production to electronic production including page layout, logo illustration, scanned halftones and color separations, inside of one year. I set up the Macintosh software, networking, electronic mail, document storage, backup and retrieval systems. ∞ I supervised the production crew in day-to-day operations and oversaw the production of all ads and collateral pieces for the production managers and art directors. I also did some video production on the in-house Avid system. ∞ I was a principal in the startup of their Internet division, Starrtech.com. I designed and produced Web sites and servers for agency clients during this period including princeville.com, Hawaii's second commercial Web site.

Honolulu Weekly

— Jul. – Dec. 1991

Freelance graphic artist, Macintosh consultant

I consulted this startup weekly tabloid newspaper on full electronic production; specified and installed the equipment and produced every weekly 12–16-page edition (single-handedly) for the first six months of its operation. This was the first all-digital, direct-to-negative newspaper in Hawaii. We took the paper from bare walls to regular publication in two weeks, flat.

ZZ-Type – Since 1988

Web designer, graphic artist, photographer, videographer, Macintosh consultant

This is my production and consulting company. I have worked freelance for graphic design firms, book publishers, public relations firms and advertising agencies as well as a private client base. Some of the more notable projects I have been involved with include: Matra/Group One Honolulu mass transit proposal team. Typographic production for “Discovery, The Hawaiian Odyssey,” a coffee table book on canoe voyaging. Liberty House November 1992 Home Sale full color catalog production. Mauna Lani Resort's 20-page View magazine for Starr Seigle. ∞ I also host multiple web sites for clients on my own web servers and Internet feed (since 2003).

Sellers Advertising, Inc. – 1990

Production manager, system manager

Oversaw art directors and production crew in print matters. Produced printing estimates, tracked jobs and coordinated complex print projects from concept through completion. Did press checks to insure quality. Managed the Macintosh network.

Castle Medical Center Print Shop — 1988–1989

Consulted, installed and implemented a Macintosh production system for this major medical center. Produced hospital forms and hospital collateral materials for the print shop and for the Public Relations department.

Honblue — 1986–1988

Set up Honblue's first typesetting department. Consulted, selected, installed and ran their original Compugraphic Integrator 9600 typesetting system. Set up pricing structures and operating procedures.

Fergerstrom & Co. – 1981–1986

Owned this graphic design, typesetting and production company. Provided typesetting, vertical camera, platemaker and photolithographic darkroom services.

“Swiss Army Knife” of communications

I am capable of working in other positions in the communications field, besides solely as a webmaster. While I have been a webmaster since the earliest days of the profession, that is only one facet of my work skills portfolio. I would be very interested in a position which utilized all or many of the communications skills derived from over 30 years in the communications arena.

I have been described as a “Swiss Army Knife” of communications. I am an award-winning, multiple-media journalist. I am able to communicate in nearly any medium, using nearly any tool available. I am a writer, editor, photographer, videographer, publisher, print producer, graphic artist, and webmaster. I have done some radio/audio work. I have some experience with video editing and production. I have been an advertising agency production manager. I can do nearly anything in the communications realm. I have helped launch several startups, many of which are still operating today.

I could work for a communications department or division in multiple capacities, or I could even run such a department, as I am doing now.

In addition, I have taught technology classes to middle school and high school students at Kamehameha and junior and senior college journalism students at the University of Hawai‘i at Mānoa School of Communications. And I have taught quarterly adult extension education classes on “how to make your first web page” for the University of Hawai‘i at Mānoa Outreach College since 1997.

Mahalo for your time.
